

dent, vice president, and treasurer. The secretary is assisted by a clerk, who is a member of the Master Builders' Association.

Has 200 Members.

Secretary Spier said today that the association had 200 members, and that the board of governors was composed of a master and a craftsman from each trade. He said that many craftsmen had come in, and union men were welcome, of course, with the limitations of the constitution. "Most union men who come in," he said, "leave the union. This is true with all except the Stonemasons, nearly all of whom have joined. They know, however, that the fact that this is the off-spring of the union is not a stigma, but a badge of honor. Many men are working. The union men we want to cut wages, we are paying the scale for high-class mechanics, and many of the union men are working under the scale to keep their men at work."

Open hostility to the new organization is freely admitted among the union men. They declare with one voice that it is merely a well-laid scheme to further injure them. They point out that while everything is apparently equal before the masters and craftsmen, the reading of the constitution and by-laws will prove conclusively that the masters have control at every stage, and further that they mean to keep it.

DeNevedy Caustic.

Sam DeNevedy, local organizer for the American Federation, and secretary of the Central Labor Union, fairly bubbled with enthusiasm in paying his compliments to the new Association today. "Any mule driver fresh from the toe path," he exclaimed, "could readily see the great and glorious work the Association of Masters and Craftsmen has in view. I admire the promoters of the organization, and I most appreciate the efforts of the Master Builders' Association for the uplift of the working man, and for mutual peace. It is the logical thing for these men to do."

Beign Reverence.

"So natural for them to turn to this work with the benign reverence of a colored Baptist preacher, after they have put in a useless endeavor to disrupt and disband forever the labor unions of the District. It is not necessary to point out that the men who are leading this organization are the men who lead the fight against."

"Of course, the two vice presidents are working men. They are as useful and as many duties in the new organization to perform as the honorary pallbearers at the funeral of a distinguished citizen. There may be craftsmen in the organization, but there are no union men. Many of the names on the list are familiar, and many of them are the names of men brought here during the recent strike and lockout. Finally, let me say that no one is misled by this attempt. The disguise for the uplift is clever enough to be ludicrous—that's all."

MAN FINDS HIS WIFE COVERED WITH FIRE

With Blanket Blaze Is Extinguished—Woman's Injuries Painful.

Put for the timely arrival of Charles Owen at his home, 129 G street, shortly before 1 o'clock today, his wife, Mrs. Ella Owen, would have been burned to death.

Mrs. Owen had attempted to fill a gasoline stove while it was burning and an explosion followed. Immediately the woman was enveloped in flames.

Her hands and arms were badly burned as she fought desperately against the flames. Mr. Owen, who was on his way to the house, heard the explosion and rushed into the kitchen to find his wife's body on the floor. He ran into the bedroom, got a blanket and rushing back into the kitchen threw it around his wife putting out the fire.

Mrs. Owen was badly burned, and suffered intensely from the shock. She was rushed to Emergency Hospital in the patrol wagon.

Meantime the fire had gained some headway, but neighbors had sent in an alarm and the fire department responded within a few minutes. The fire was soon extinguished. Mr. Owen was slightly burned about the hands, but otherwise suffered no ill effects.

RAINEY, IN THE HOUSE, ANSWERS C. P. TAFT

Panama Canal Inquisitor Declares He Is Glad Cincinnati Editor Has Repudiated William Nelson Cromwell.

suggest that the President-elect can, at the present time, render no greater service to his country than he can render by withdrawing his frequent public endorsement of William Nelson Cromwell. At the present time Mr. Cromwell and Mr. Farnham are proceeding under the certificate of good character given them in the past by the President-elect.

Says Taft Should Remove.

"The next President of the United States could render no greater service to his country in Panama matters than he could render by, immediately after his term of office commences, removing both Cromwell and Farnham from their present official positions, and from the positions of trust and confidence they now apparently hold with reference to him, and I sincerely hope that the next President of the United States will do so."

Gets Article in Record.

Immediately following the reading of his formal statement regarding Mr. Taft's repudiation of any connection with William Nelson Cromwell, Mr. Rainey said:

In order that some other gentleman who have denied my speech may attain the same prominence in this matter, I ask to have incorporated in the Congressional Record an article from the New York Times of yesterday."

This article was a denial of the part of Randolph G. Ward, of New York, that Mr. Rainey was responsible for the railroad and timber grant plans on the isthmus, and also a denial by Mr. Rainey's secretary that his endorsement of the plan had been anything but proper. Mr. Ward, in the interview, is repeated to have suggested the original plan himself. Instead of Mr. Cromwell, in this subject Mr. Rainey continued:

"I do not have the pleasure or an acquaintance with Mr. Ward, but in addition to his other characteristics, he is evidently a prince of humorists. The interview has been an attempt to give Mr. Cromwell will do that gentleman no good."

"If Mr. Ward had challenged me to suggest a more outrageous proposal than he suggested, I would have been unable to accept the challenge. I have never received from the New York World, said Mr. Rainey, 'or any other newspaper, all the world the slightest assistance. The World furnished me with none of the documents or with the slightest bit of information which I put into the Record. The New York World did not reveal to me evidence in any particular whatever. I have never consulted the New York World, and whatever evidence I have given was collected by myself.'"

NEW NAVY BUREAU PLAN MAY NEED AID

Dawson Says Congress Should Help Secretary in Reforms.

A new twist was given to the problem of naval reorganization today by the important action of the House Committee of Naval Affairs.

At the opening of the session, Mr. Dawson of Iowa raised the question, concerning the recent effort of Secretary Newberry to cut the red tape of the department, by consolidating some of the bureaus in the navy yards.

Mr. Dawson expressed himself as in entire agreement with the policy of the Secretary, and other members of the committee indicated the same attitude. Mr. Dawson pointed out, however, that so long as the law remains as it now stands, efforts at reform by executive order will be dependent upon the attitude of the Secretary of the Navy. The present Secretary might be ever so anxious to effect reforms, but so long as the law provides eight bureaus in the department, the efforts of one secretary are liable to be nullified by the lack of interest of his successor.

Accordingly, the committee adopted a resolution asking Secretary Newberry to appear before the committee next Thursday for a general consideration and explanation of the situation.

SCOT MAY GOVERN CANADA. LONDON, Jan. 28.—It is reported that Right Hon. John Sinclair, secretary for Scotland, who has just been raised to the peerage, will be the next governor general of Canada. In 1904 he married Lady Marjorie Gordon, daughter of the seventh Earl of Aberdeen, who was governor general of Canada from 1885 to 1888, during which time Sinclair was secretary to the earl.

GLASSES UNNECESSARY

Eye Strain Relieved by Quitting Coffee.

Many cases of defective vision are caused by the habitual use of coffee. It is said that in Arabia, where coffee is used in large quantities, many lose their eyesight at about fifty.

A N. J. woman writes to the point concerning eye trouble and coffee. She says:

"My son was for years troubled with his eyes. He tried several kinds of glasses without relief. The physician said there was a defect in his eyes which was hard to reach."

"He used to drink coffee, as we all did, and finally quit it and began to use Postum. That was three years ago, he has not had to wear glasses and has had no trouble with his eyes since."

"I was always fond of tea and coffee and finally became so nervous I could hardly sit still long enough to eat a meal. My heart was in such a condition I thought I might die any time."

"Medicine did not give me relief and I was almost desperate. I saw about this time we decided to quit coffee and use Postum, and have used it ever since. I am in perfect health. No trouble now with my heart and never felt better in my life."

Postum has been a great blessing to us all, particularly to my son and myself. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich., Read "The Road to Wellville" in pinks. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

I am ready to produce a proof," he said.

Produces a Dispatch.

As showing in Mr. Rainey's connection with the Panama affair, Mr. Rainey quoted from a member of President Obaldia's administration who recently wrote:

"Among those 'created in this business' was W. S. Harvey and others whose names Mr. Rainey did not read."

"I present that as complete denial to Mr. Rainey's statement," continued Mr. Rainey.

Mr. Rainey also had incorporated in the Record a Panama dispatch to the New York Herald of yesterday describing the fight in the Panama chamber of deputies on the grant of practically the entire Caribbean coast to an American company, said to be backed by William Nelson Cromwell. The project had been described in debate, he said, "as the pet measure of President Obaldia," whom Mr. Rainey has charged with being implicated with Cromwell in the deal.

Mr. Rainey, intimating by his action that he would have something further to say at a future date, sat down amid loud applause on the Democratic side.

Mr. Lovering, of Massachusetts, then got the floor, and in a speech which William Nelson Cromwell, in which that gentleman denied that he had any interest in any concession, contract, or business affairs on the isthmus of Panama. He said that his only interest of any kind consisted of a small holding in a Panama lighting company, which he purchased at the request of citizens for the purpose of stimulating local interest in the company. At the outset of the letter Mr. Cromwell expresses the opinion that the affairs of Panama were not proper subject of the American Congress, but that, so far as he was personally concerned, he would waive technicalities and disclose his sole financial interest in Panama.

When Mr. Lovering concluded the reading of the letter he declared that Mr. Rainey had been filled up with a lot of matter from a well-known source, and this remark gave Mr. Rainey an opportunity, which he was looking for for several days, to disclaim any connection with the New York World or any interest which was agitating the so-called Panama Canal scandal. Mr. Rainey interrupted Mr. Lovering to ask that Mr. Lovering disclose the source to which he referred. "The New York World," replied Mr. Lovering, after a moment of hesitation.

"I have never received from the New York World, said Mr. Rainey, 'or any other newspaper, all the world the slightest assistance. The World furnished me with none of the documents or with the slightest bit of information which I put into the Record. The New York World did not reveal to me evidence in any particular whatever. I have never consulted the New York World, and whatever evidence I have given was collected by myself.'"

CUEN WON HIS BRIDE BY PERSISTENT SUIT

Friends of Celestial's White Wife Recall Lavish Gifts and Wooing.

Equally interesting as the marriage of the wealthy Chinese merchant, Moy You Cuen, and Miss Anna M. Workman, the beautiful Charleston, W. Va., girl who became his bride in Baltimore yesterday, is the story of the courtship of this aged Celestial.

Friends of the couple are today showering congratulations upon them. Although aware of the great fondness of Cuen for Miss Workman, any expectation of their becoming husband and wife had been abandoned by those friends months ago.

The wedding announcement was a surprise. At the same time the friends now realize that the patience and persistence of Cuen must have eventually won under any circumstances.

No young lover ever pressed his suit with more ardor or persistence than did Cuen. Although more than forty years the senior of the young woman he wooed to wed, he brushed aside her prejudices, laishing upon her valuable presents and leaving nothing undone that would make him foremost in her thoughts.

About a year ago Cuen and Miss Workman met at the home of Mrs. Mary Calvert, Second and Street, northwest. On the part of Cuen it was love at first sight. The daily little bromides thought him interesting—that was all.

His request to be permitted to call on her was readily granted. He called again and again, and each time the subject of his affections became more interested in him. Finally came the offer of marriage. Started at first at the young man's proposal, the Chinese man had drawn from her simple interest in him and his tales of the Far East, and she was disposed at first to end his visits.

RAIN, AND MORE RAIN, IS WEATHER OUTLOOK

If It Cannot Be Fair Washington at Least Will Not Get the Snow Which Is Visiting Many Other Cities.

If the weather cannot remain fair, the weather man is at least considerate. Following this morning's change from threatening snow to rain, more rain is promised for tonight and tomorrow, so that, for the present, at least, Washington has escaped another siege of snow and ice.

According to the weather man, the storm center is moving over Illinois in an easterly direction, with south-east winds shifting to southwest, and becoming higher. Warmer weather in Washington tonight and colder tomorrow is the indication. Umbrellas will come in handy, but these have articles and snow shoes beat for comfort.

Southwest Is Swept By a Heavy Storm. ST. LOUIS, Jan. 28.—A heavy wind storm that swept Oklahoma and parts of Missouri reached St. Louis early today in the shape of a 40-mile gale.

Reports indicate that the loss in other places has been heavy. Lamonte, Mo., was swept by a storm that had the strength of a tornado. Several persons were hurt. The roof of the opera house was blown off and hurried a block away. In St. Joseph a heavy rainfall; culverts and bridges were washed out.

At Enid, Girty, Nashville, Carmen, and other Oklahoma towns there was wind and dust storms.

Snow, Later Rainfall, Is Baltimore Weather. BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 28.—Rain, preceded by fine snow flurries, began falling here shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, when a taxicab in which they were riding crashed into an electric light pole at Pennsylvania avenue and Eighth street northwest. They were shaken up and cut by flying glass, but were not badly hurt.

The machine was coming up Pennsylvania avenue when Albert Hamilton, chauffeur, lost control of the steering wheel. The automobile had collided with the iron pole with sufficient force to tear it up from the ground. The automobile, which is owned by the Terminal Taxicab Company, was damaged to the extent of $100.
